

Surfers against Sewage are running a Return to Offender campaign.

Return to Offender is a mini campaign action which targets manufacturers and big brands to reduce their plastic packaging and tackle plastic pollution. At the end of July, the SAS team will be heading up to London to return the plastic packaging pollution to the manufacturers who made it.

If you are a keen local litter picker, SAS are looking for any branded packaging pollution no matter what brand or size. As long as it has a clear name on, it's good to use! Think crisp packets, plastic bottles, sweet wrappers and beer cans but please no glass items. The plastic pollution you find doesn't need to be washed but the cleaner, the better!

Between 5 and 7 July, Caroline Lee will take in your collection of plastic pollution, ready to pack and send to Surfers against Sewage.
